

Ani Attamian

Ani Attamian is a keynote speaker and business advisor. She spent two decades inside the enterprise, including eleven years at Google, where she put machine learning models for synthetic speech into production, years before generative AI ever became a headline. Then she founded LEMA® Collective. She names the one root cause behind a stalled AI programme, draining millions per month while teams build on data nobody checked. Her Data-to-Decision Sequence was forged from personal experience.
